

Summary

Very good overall as elaborately embellished with Mexican origins. Retaining over 60% blue niter along with over 75% silver and gold inlay finishes with smooth grey and brown patina on the balance, enhanced markings, light handling wear, along with well-defined engraving and inlays.

Floral engravings traditionally native to Mexican culture, Dahlias, Marigolds, Poppy and Roses/Rosebuds represented as resilience and endurance, political struggle and violence with Dahlias representative of Lady of Guadalupe (Virgin Mary).

The grips are Mexican Charro/Tiffany Style Grips excellent with an attractively antiqued appearance, only the slightest handling marks and crisp relief. Along with depictions of the Rampant Colt and Mexican Coat of Arms (of the era circa 1893-1916) inlaid in gold on both panels.

Description/ About the Engraver

Manufactured circa 1905, subsequently extensively and elaborately embellished by an unknown skilled artisan. It features floral bud and leaf pattern engraving spanning across the barrel, ejector rod housing, frame, cylinder, and both grip straps, with the floral motifs inlaid in silver, gold inlaid leaf bordering at the front and rear of the barrel, along with gold inlaid bordering around the barrel markings and on the cylinder, contrasted with a niter blue finish.

The frame has the single screw cylinder pin retention. It has fixed blade front and top strap notch rear sights, and the remarked Colt Hartford address in two lines on top of the barrel with the caliber designation retained on the left side. Matching full serial numbers on the frame and trigger guard.
